Tutoring Experience

Over the past 7 years, I have worked with students from various international schools and local institutions in Singapore. My focus has been on teaching A-Level and IB Biology, covering topics such as genetics, molecular biology, and ecology. I've supported students in understanding complex biological processes and achieving excellent exam results.

I've also helped prepare students for IGCSE Biology and AP Biology, providing guidance on coursework and lab assessments. Working closely with students, I ensure they grasp fundamental concepts and are well-prepared for university-level studies.

In addition to individual tutoring, I've collaborated with schools to create customised programmes that address students' academic needs. This experience has allowed me to refine my teaching methods and ensure that each student benefits from a personalised approach to learning biology.
